Abstract

The thesis entitled “Effectiveness of On-The-Job Training to the 3rd Year Hotel And Restaurant Management Students SY: 2012 – 2013 Of De La Salle University-Dasmariñas” aims to determine the effectiveness of the On-The-Job Training measured in terms of Knowledge, Skills and Attitude. It also includes the factors in improving the performance of the trainees.

The proponent assessed and analyzed the data gathered through Descriptive Research also known as statistical research, which describes data characteristics about the population being studied. It answers the questions, who, what, when, where, and how. Descriptive method of research is a fact- finding with enough interpretation. It describes and interprets what the study is all about. It involves data gathering, questionnaires, surveys, interviews, observations and experiences. The proponents used a self-made questionnaire to get the data they need for the study.

The main target of the study is to determine the acquired knowledge of students in their On-The-Job Training. The group aims to help the future trainees to improve their performance in terms of Knowledge, Skills and Attitude through the Training Establishments. This study also wants the students to be aware that undergoing On-The-Job Training is the stepping stone to develop themselves to become professionals in their own specialization and acquire new learning through gained experienced during training.
